Why Air Filters Are So Important

Air filters play two vital roles in your home's cooling and heating system: They help make the air you breathe cleaner and healthier—and they also protect your HVAC system.

In fact, experienced HVAC professionals will tell you that dirty filters are one of the most common root causes of a service call. When dirt and debris start to build up on your system components, that can lead to...

- Lower airflow
- Longer time to reach set temperature
- Increased energy costs (since your system has to work harder)
- Disruptive noises and issues with your A/C or furnace
